TROOPS TAKE CHARGE IN MEXICO AFTER OBREGON'S ASSASSINATION

20 FEDERAL MEN START HUNT FOR CORN BORER HERE

U. S. Government Inspectors
To Comb Pickaway-Co.
For Enemy of Corn.

The Corn Borer better watch out and get back into his stalk for 20 U. S. Government corn borer inspectors under the supervision of E. F. Deyo of the Agricultural department at Washington D. C., arrived here, Tuesday night to comb Pickaway-co.

The men under the supervision of Mr. Deyo are called scouts and have been schooled in the work of inspection and their job will be thorough. They will visit every farm in the county, and many will come in contact with these men, who will be roaming through the fields and woods looking for the suspicious moth which is the winged corn borer. They will also inspect corn cribs, barnyards and feeding racks.

Their scouting work consists of bringing in suspicious looking worms and their winged brothers and sisters. These are sent in daily to in tubes and cans to the government laboratory at Toledo. In case the examination proves they are corn borers, the locality or township is immediately placed under quarantine, and no fodder or cobs are allowed to leave this territory.

In speaking of this quarantine, Mr. Deyo said, that it does not bother the farmer or corn grower. The crop is not destroyed, but as soon as it matures the corn is harvested and if not fed up, it can be shelled after being thoroughly cleaned, and sold to elevators in or outside of the quarantined district. No cobs or fodder is allowed to leave a township after being quarantined. As a rule, if fodder is not fed to cattle or hogs it is ordered also destroyed by burning.

So thoroughly must the clean up be, that no brush or weed must be left where the worm could find a lodgement. This is done for the protection of the corn grower as well as his adjoining neighbor. It behooves the farmer to join and cooperate with the scout who visits his farm, and give him every opportunity to ferret this destroyer of crops. With his assistance he can make the work of the scout easy and assist himself. These scouts are picked men, and will be found courteous and reasonable. This county so far as been fortunate. In several townships, it has been reported that suspicious looking worms have been found in corn stalks, but these were in townships along the river and it is thought that possibly some of the corn borers were brought down by the spring floods.

It is found buried in the pith of the stock. It bores through the stalk, and is usually discovered when the blade turns yellow and wilts. In the pupa stage it is barely a half inch long. The chrysalis, produces the winged moth, which is a silvery white insect in appearance. The female is easily distinguishable from the male. The female deposits anywhere from two to five hundred eggs in the corn stalk, and these soon develop into worms, which do the damage. Whole fields of growing corn have been destroyed in one season. Sometimes only the outside rows of a cornfield are attacked the first season, and gradually the whole field comes under their destroying activities. The next season the worm hibernates in the stubble of corn weeds or any lodgement it can find and the farmer's work is all for naught, once the worm infests the land. The borer was introduced into this country from Southern Europe. It was first discovered in Canada. It then made its appearance in Northern New York and gradually it has found its way westward. Its northern boundary is Delaware-co. Some corn borers have infested Franklin-co. corn. The scouts under Mr. Deyo's charge will move southward toward the river, taking in this county Fayette, Ross, Hocking, Vinton, Scioto and Galia counties.

BUILDING AT CAMP GROUND IS FOR 3,000

Church of Christ Making Vast Improvements For Summer Sessions Here.

That Circleville is fast becoming a greater headquarters for the summer camp meeting grounds of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, is evidenced in the fact that $12,000 worth of new buildings are being rushed to completion at the camp headquarters here. The buildings are probably worth double this, but due to donated services of members of the various congregations, much is being saved.

Harry Dolby, a Columbus contractor and member of the church, is superintending construction. Around 50 others are helping build the largest structure on the grounds now, the main auditorium, which will seat around 3,000. This building will cost around $7,000 but because of services donated this cost is considered very low.

The building has a 68-foot span and is of large construction, 100 feet by 196. It is planned to have it completed by August 22 when the camp meetings for the summer open, extending on through until September 3. In addition to this building, a new dormitory has been just completed recently. It is, two stories high and 110 by 16 feet. Eighty have sleeping quarters on the second floor while 22 families can be housed comfortably on the first floor. Figuring four to a family, a total of 160 can sleep in the building.

In addition there is a fine dining room in a separate building and other sleeping quarters. Three pastors will take charge of the camp meeting services this summer, the Rev. E. A. Keaton, Rev. Given McKibben and Rev. O. L. Ferguson.

Sixty churches in this district of Ohio attend the camp. Circleville people generally do not know how large an affair this camp meeting is nor the thousands it attracts to the city.

Hundreds of visitors from all over this section of Ohio have already signified their intentions of attending this year, and have made reservations at some of the sleeping quarters on the ground. As high as 5,000 have been known to attend the camp in one day, with hundreds of autos parked on or near the grounds.

The camp is growing larger each year. Members from the various churches including Circleville and its pastor, are enthusiastic over their work, donating their time and money to making the affair a big success. It will be worth your while to go out and look the camp over.

MRS. HOOVER'S FATHER DIES EARLY TODAY

Stricken In Sanitarium While
Daughter and Husband
Hurry West.

PLACERVILLE CALIF., July 18.—C. D. Henry, father of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, died in a sanitarium here at 5:30 a. m., today.

Death overtook him as a special train bearing his daughter and the Republican presidential nominee sped westward across the continent to his bedside.

With him when he died were another daughter, Mrs. A. V. Large of Georgetown, Calif., and Allan Hoover, son of the presidential nominee.

Henry was taken ill while on a hike with Mrs. Large on July 4th, at Georgetown and was brought to a sanitarium here for treatment.

After he had been in the sanitarium for several days he suffered a stroke of paralysis but physicians did not at that time regard his condition as critical, despite his advanced age. He was 84 years old.

During the latter part of last week his condition took a turn for the worse and it was admitted that he could not live long.

News that Mrs. Hoover and her husband had left Washington cheered him last Saturday night and for a while he seemed to be strengthened.

The hope of seeing his daughter one more kept him alive longer than physicians had believed he could survive.

He followed eagerly the progress of the Hoover special westward and kept count of the hours remaining before Mrs. Hoover would be due in California.

When advised of Henry's serious condition, Hoover arranged to speed up his special, but the train could not have reached Placerville before Friday morning at the earliest.

Funeral arrangements were held up awaiting word from Mrs. Hoover.

OMAHA, July 18.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover was notified when her train arrived here this morning that her father, C. D. Henry, had died at Placerville, Calif. Because of the fear he might not live until the Hoover party reached home, their train has proceeded with fewer and shorter stops than originally planned since it left Superior, Wis., last night.

It is not known how Mr. Henry's death will affect Hoover's plans but it is believed that all receptions preliminary to August 11, notification ceremonies may be eliminated.

BURTON WHEELER IS RE-ELECTED SENATOR

HELENA, MONT., July 18.—U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler was re-nominated by Montana Democrats, scattered returns from the populated centers of Montana indicated today.

In the early returns from yesterday's primary election, Wheeler was leading by two to one over the combined vote of his two opponents. The vote in 110 of the 1490 precincts were: Wheeler 2,661; S. V. Stewart, 1,668; S. W. Teagarden, 129.

Through the efforts of the Rock Co. Automobile Club, a Hudson coach belonging to Herbert Snyder, which was stolen Saturday night from in front of his residence, was found at Commercial Point, north of Circleville, where it had been abandoned. Authorities believe that the thieves who stole Snyder's car were the same ones who stole a car in Circleville earlier in the evening and abandoned it before Kingston. Saturday night a store at Commercial Point was robbed and Circleville authorities have established that tools from Snyder's car were used in effecting the entrance.—Chillicothe Advertiser.

An Open Letter to City Council

Dear City Dads:
Tonight you are to meet on a very important mission, an errand of mercy as well as one of guardianship of the public safety of the people you represent, the City of Circleville.

It's about the water rates. It seems facts presented by The Circleville Herald in the past few weeks regarding rates charged in other cities in Ohio would tend to show beyond a ray of doubt that the Ohio Water Service company is guilty and has been guilty for the past five years of charging the average home consumer of Circleville the exorbitant rate of 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water consumed.

Meanwhile, this same evidence brought out by The Circleville Herald in inaugurating its fight for the public interests of the city and county it represents, would tend to show that other cities in the state are paying 20, 30 and 40 cents per 1,000 gallons of water consumed with a few at 50 and 60 cents.

Circleville, city dads as you know, has been paying 95 cents per 1,000 gallons, two, three, four and almost five times as much as other cities in Ohio.

What is the reason for all this? Oh, various ones, city dads! Possibly because there was a legislative slip-up along the line, but mostly because the water works company had a grand and glorious opportunity to charge just about what it wanted to charge and get away with it.

And what has been the result? Merely this, city dads—practically every home consumer of water in Circleville, and that takes in about everyone, has been paying out money that could be utilized to improving the city in the ways that it most needs improving—boulevard lights, a hospital, etc.

And now has come a time to call a halt.

But there are issues still at stake. We would caution you, city dads, not to grant the Ohio Water Service company a long-term franchise.

Wouldn't one year be just about long enough, if it is your decision to give them a franchise at all instead of have the Ohio Utilities Commission re-hear the case and set the rates on the basis of testimony and facts?

The Circleville Herald is not necessarily against a franchise. It is against one that will make the city responsible for something for a long period of time. Especially when it is very, very possible that another source of water supply, apart from that used, might be obtained for the betterment of the health of Circleville, and one which could be more advantageously used by the waterworks company, too, without such a great expense.

Of course city dads, this is just an angle to the case. We want lower rates and we know we're going to get them. The Ohio Utilities Commission has indicated through its ready willingness, to re-hear the case.

Why a long franchise? Why possibly make another mistake one year long enough? Why even a six month?

Yours very truly,
THE CIRCLEVILLE HERALD

ICE BREAKER WILL SEARCH NORTH AGAIN

Still Has Hopes Some or All
of Twelve Men Still Lost
May Be Found.

MOSCOW, July 18.—The ice breaker Krassin, which already has brought 16 men out of the Arctic alive after most of them had given up hope of ever again reaching civilization, will not quit its errand of mercy until one last search has been made for 12 others lost in that ice bound area.

The Krassin, with its cargo of rescued explorers, was ordered by the Soviet relief commission to continue to Advent Bay to refuel so that the second great search could be started immediately.

Twelve men are still lost in the Arctic. They may be dead. Six men may have died in an explosion aboard the dirigible Italia as it floated away after the crash on May 25. Six others may have died when Roald Amundsen led his airplane expedition into the ice area.

But observers of the Krassin said there was reason to believe these 12 might still be living—and Russia will not give up hope until the sturdy Krassin again has bucked ice floes and gone through the territory that might now hold those 12.

The men still missing include: Prof. Aldo Ponthemoli, Renato Alessandrini, Ettore Arduino, Attilio Caratti, Calisto Cioeca, Calisto Cioeca, Ugo Lago, Roald Amundsen, Lief Dietrichsen, Rene Guilbaud, Lieut. de Cuverville, M. Caudebec, and M. Brassy.

The first six were those who floated away with the envelope of the Italia. The latter six were in the Latham seaplane that Amundsen commanded on the relief expedition that left Tromsø, Norway, June 18 and has not been heard from since.

The three officers covered both railroads when they reached Ashville, while Deputy Porter watched the traction line but only one woman was on the midnight car.

The colored men who claimed they were robbed did not give their names but said they were employees of the Chesapeake and Ohio R. R., and occupied boarding cars on a side track at Duvall. Sheriff Davis did not see the alleged victims but heard the story.

The officers spent all night investigating the case.

CALLES MOVES IN EFFORT TO HALT TROUBLE

Murderer Who Killed President-Elect May Be Executed At Once.

By GESFORD FINE
United Press Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—President Calles moved swiftly today to prevent the assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon from becoming the spark that would destroy his government.

Troops were massed in barracks, public gathering places were closed. During the night three high police officials were replaced by more loyal men and a censorship was clamped down on the press.

Unless authorities find that he can give them additional information about the plot, General Obregon's assassin, will be executed immediately.

This morning it appeared that the outrage was an individual matter, not linked, as at first assumed, with any widespread political move against the government.

The assassin who shot Obregon six times at close range, as the president-elect sat at the luncheon table with a group of his friends in the fashionable Hotel de la Paz in the wealthy suburb of San Angel yesterday afternoon, is now believed to be Jose Juan Gonzalez. He was first described as Juan Escapulario, an amateur cartoonist and it was on the pretext of showing the General a drawing that he succeeded in approaching Obregon in the cafe.

After he had been saved from the fury of Obregon's friends, whose first impulse was to slay him at once, the assassin made this statement:

"I have done what I came to do. I killed Obregon because I wanted Christ to be king and to reign completely, not partially."

Regularly constituted authorities believed that the young assassin's statement means he was not associated with the anti-Obregon political faction. It was reported, however, that many of the late president-elect's enemies were fleeing the city in the fear that they would be made to suffer reprisals at the hands of an indignant and outraged people.

President Calles, who according to the extras now is called "Chief" by the Obregonistas and who may continue in the presidency for two more years as a result of the assassination, wasted no time in his attempts to stifle revolutionary tendencies.

He ordered troops into the barracks throughout the republic. He called a conference of his closest advisers, the purpose of which was not made known. All theaters, cabarets, cinema houses, saloons and other public gathering places were closed. Three highest officials of the police department summarily were replaced.

General Antonio Ries Zertuche, formerly in command of the State of Sonora, was appointed chief of police to succeed General Roberto Cruz.

Arturo Orell was made general secretary to replace Senito Guerrero Leal.

Homonoe Marques was appointed chief of the secret service. All three of the new appointees closely were aligned to the Obregon cause.

The president was deeply affected by the assassination of his predecessor in office and the man who was to succeed him. He issued a short statement: "I have suffered such a shock that I am completely stunned by the death of Alvaro Obregon and the transcendental importance to the country, as represented by all the good and virtuous of the Mexican people. In my estimation the country has lost its greatest representative."

Later the president sent the following message to the governors of all Mexican states:

"It is useless to say the nation suffers an irreparable loss with the death of Obregon. (Turn to page five, please.)"

It will be worth your while to go out and look the camp over.

MRS. HOOVER'S FATHER DIES EARLY TODAY

Stricken In Sanitarium While
Daughter and Husband
Hurry West.

PLACERVILLE CALIF., July 18.—C. D. Henry, father of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, died in a sanitarium here at 5:30 a. m., today.

Death overtook him as a special train bearing his daughter and the Republican presidential nominee sped westward across the continent to his bedside.

With him when he died were another daughter, Mrs. A. V. Large of Georgetown, Calif., and Allan Hoover, son of the presidential nominee.

Henry was taken ill while on a hike with Mrs. Large on July 4th, at Georgetown and was brought to a sanitarium here for treatment.

After he had been in the sanitarium for several days he suffered a stroke of paralysis but physicians did not at that time regard his condition as critical, despite his advanced age. He was 84 years old.

During the latter part of last week his condition took a turn for the worse and it was admitted that he could not live long.

News that Mrs. Hoover and her husband had left Washington cheered him last Saturday night and for a while he seemed to be strengthened.

The hope of seeing his daughter one more kept him alive longer than physicians had believed he could survive.

He followed eagerly the progress of the Hoover special westward and kept count of the hours remaining before Mrs. Hoover would be due in California.

When advised of Henry's serious condition, Hoover arranged to speed up his special, but the train could not have reached Placerville before Friday morning at the earliest.

Funeral arrangements were held up awaiting word from Mrs. Hoover.

OMAHA, July 18 — Mrs. Herbert Hoover was notified when her train arrived here this morning that her father, C. D. Henry, had died at Placerville, Calif. Because of the fear he might not live until the Hoover party reached home, their train has proceeded with fewer and shorter stops than originally planned since it left Superior, Wis., last night.

It is not known how Mr. Henry's death will affect Hoover's plans but it is believed that all receptions preliminary to August 11, nomination ceremonies may be eliminated.

CHILICOTHE AUTO STOLEN, IS FOUND

Through the efforts of the Ross Co. Automobile Club, a Hudson coach belonging to Herbert Snyder, which was stolen Saturday night from in front of his residence, was found at Commercial Point, north of Circleville, where it had been abandoned.

Authorities believe that the thieves who stole Snyder's car were the same ones who stole a car in Circleville earlier in the evening and abandoned it below Kingston. Saturday night a store at Commercial Point was robbed and Circleville authorities have established that tools from Snyder's car were used in effecting the entrance. Chillicothe Advertiser.

An Open Letter to City Council

Dear City Dads:

Tonight you are to meet on a very important mission, an errand of mercy as well as one of guardian of the public safety of the people you represent, the City of Circleville.

It's about the water rates. It seems facts presented by The Circleville Herald in the past few weeks regarding rates charged in other cities in Ohio would tend to show beyond a ray of doubt that the Ohio Water Service company is guilty and has been guilty for the past five years of charging the average home consumer of Circleville the exorbitant rate of 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water consumed.

Meanwhile, this same evidence brought out by The Circleville Herald in inaugurating its fight for the public interests of the city and county it represents, would tend to show that other cities in the state are paying 20, 30 and 40 cents per 1,000 gallons of water consumed with a few at 50 and 60 cents.

Circleville, city dads as you know, has been paying 95 cents per 1,000 gallons, two, three, four and almost five times as much as other cities in Ohio.

What is the reason for all this? Oh, various ones, city dads!

Possibly because there was a legislative slip-up along the line, but mostly because the water works company had a grand and glorious opportunity to charge just about what it wanted to charge and get away with it.

And what has been the result? Merely this, city dads—practically every home consumer of water in Circleville, and that takes in about everyone, has been paying out money that could be utilized to improving the city in the ways that it most needs improving—boulevard lights, a hospital, etc.

And now has come a time to call a halt.

But there are issues still at stake. We would caution you, city dads, not to grant the Ohio Water Service company a long-term franchise.

Wouldn't one year be just about long enough, if it is your decision to give them a franchise at all instead of have the Ohio Utilities Commission re-hear the case and set the rates on the basis of testimony and facts?

The Circleville Herald is not necessarily against a franchise. It is against one that will make the city responsible for something for a long period of time. Especially when it is very, very possible that another source of water supply, aside from that used, might be obtained for the betterment of the health of Circleville, and one which could be more advantageously used by the waterworks company, too, without such a great expense.

Of course, city dads, this is just an angle to the case. We want cheaper rates and we know we're going to get them. The Ohio Utilities Commission has indicated through its ready willingness, immediately to re-hear the case, that it "believes" Circleville's water rate is too high.

But, why a long franchise? Why, possibly, make another mistake?

Isn't one year long enough? Or is everyone satisfied?

Yours for Circleville.

THE CIRCLEVILLE HERALD.

ICE BREAKER WILL SEARCH NORTH AGAIN

Still Has Hopes Some or All
of Twelve Men Still Lost
May Be Found.

MOSCOW, July 18.—The ice breaker Krassin, which already has brought 16 men out of the Arctic alive after most of them had given up hope of ever again reaching civilization, will not quit its errand of mercy until one last search has been made for 12 others lost in that ice bound area.

The Krassin, with its cargo of rescued explorers, was ordered by the Soviet relief commission to continue to Advent Bay to refuel so that the second great search could be started immediately.

Twelve men are still lost in the Arctic. They may be dead. Six men may have died in an explosion abroad the dirigible Italia as it floated away after the crash on May 25. Six others may have died when Roald Amundsen led his airplane expedition into the ice area.

But observers of the Krassin said there was reason to believe these 12 might still be living—and Russia will not give up hope until the sturdy Krassin again has bucked ice floes and gone through the territory that might now hold those 12.

The men still missing include: Prof. Aldo Ponthomeli, Renato Alessandrini, Ettore Arduino, Attilio Caratti, Calisto Ciocca, Calisto Ciocca, Ugo Lago, Roald Amundsen, Lief Dietrichsen, Rene Guilbaud, Lieut. de Cuverville, M. Caudebec, and M. Brazzy.

The first six were those who floated away with the envelope of the Italia. The latter six were in the Latham seaplane that Amundsen commanded on the relief expedition that left Tromsø, Norway, June 18 and has not been heard from since.

TELEPHONE GIRL REPORTS HOLDUP AND $100 THEFT

Sheriff Davis and Force Investigate Robbery Near Duvall.

Sheriff Davis, accompanied by Deputies John G. Ward and Carl Porter, investigated a holdup near Duvall when a girl telephone operator called the sheriff's office and "tipped him" on the alleged robbery.

She telephoned that some negroes in an auto had been helped by other negroes and relieved of $100.

The three officers covered both railroads when they reached Ashville, while Deputy Porter watched the traction line but only one woman was on the midnight car.

The colored men who claimed they were robbed did not give their names but said they were employees of the Chesapeake and Ohio R. R., and occupied boarding cars on a side track at Duvall. Sheriff Davis did not see the alleged victims but heard the story.

The officers spent all night investigating the case.

CALLES MOVES IN EFFORT TO HALT TROUBLE

Murderer Who Killed President-Elect May Be Executed At Once.

By GESFORD FINE
United Press Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—President Calles moved swiftly today to prevent the assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon from becoming the spark that would destroy his government.

Troops were massed in barracks, public gathering places were closed. During the night three high police officials were replaced by more loyal men and a censorship was clamped down on the press.

Unless authorities find that he can give them additional information about the plot, General Obregon's assassin, will be executed immediately.

This morning it appeared that the outrage was an individual matter, not linked, as at first assumed, with any widespread political move against the government.

The assassin who shot Obregon six times at close range as the president-elect sat at the luncheon table with a group of his friends in the La Bodega cafe in the wealthy suburb of San Angel yesterday afternoon, is now believed to be Jose Juan Gonzales.

He was first described as Juan Escapulario an amateur cartoonist and it was on the pretext of showing the General a drawing that he succeeded in approaching Obregon in the cafe.

After he had been saved from the fury of Obregon's friends, whose first impulse was to slay him at once, the assassin made this statement:

"I have done what I came to do. I killed Obregon because I wanted Christ to be king and to reign completely, not partially."

Regularly constituted authorities believed that the young assassin's statement means he was not associated with the anti-Obregon political faction. It was reported, however, that many of the late president-elect's enemies were fleeing the city in the fear that they would be made to suffer reprisals at the hands of an indignant and outraged people.

President Calles, who according to the extras now is called "Chief" by the Obregonistas and who may continue in the presidency for two more years as a result of the assassination, wasted no time in his attempts to stifle revolutionary tendencies.

He ordered troops into the barracks throughout the republic. He called a conference of his closest advisers, the purpose of which was not made known. All theaters, cabarets, cinema houses, saloons and other public gathering places were closed. Three highest officials of the police department summarily were replaced.

General Antonio Rios Zertuche, formerly in command of the State of Sinaloa, was appointed chief of police to succeed General Roberto Cruz.

Arturo Orci was made general secretary to replace Senito Guerrero Leal.

Homobono Marquez was appointed chief of the secret service. All three of the new appointees closely were aligned to the Obregon cause.

The president was deeply affected by the assassination of his predecessor in office and the man who was to succeed him. He issued only one short statement: "I have suffered such a shock that I am completely stunned by the death of Obregon and the transcendental importance to the country, as represented by all the hopes and ambitions of the Mexican people. In my estimation the country has lost its greatest representative."

Later the president sent the following message to the governors of all Mexican states:

"It is useless to say the nation suffers an irreparable loss with (Turn to page five, please).

AMERICAN OLYMPIC TEAM IN PERFECT CONDITION

ATHLETES TO WORK OUT ON SHORE FRIDAY

Final Entry List Wirelessly To Amsterdam and Everything Is Set.

By FRANK GETTY
C. P. Sports Editor

ABOARD S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 18.—When the S. S. President Roosevelt steamed up the Ansel river to Amsterdam Friday morning the American Olympic team is expected to be in perfect condition.

Dennell Every, Yale fencer, already has recovered from the flesh wound in his shoulder and Lehigh wrestler, is ready to resume his daily workouts on deck. Every's shoulder was injured two days ago.

The first general workout for the team will be held Friday afternoon on shore. All the athletes have had their turns at taking exercise on deck, but the cramped quarters have made it impossible for the runners and jumpers to practice all of their events.

The final entry list was wirelessly to Amsterdam today. The only change from the selections made after the final tryout at Cambridge, Mass., is that McCauley Smith of the Boston Athletic association will compete in the 10,000 meter run as well as the 5,000 meter event. Smith's teammates in the longer event will be Joie Ray of the Illinois Athletic club and John L. Romick of the Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia.

J. Kenneth Dougherty, James Stewart, Bernard Berlinger and Thomas Churchill, the four entrants in the Decathlon, have gained a total of 55 pounds in weight which they lost during the tryouts.

SPORTSMATTER

Deposed as manager of the Chicago White Sox Ray Schalk—were "fired."

Eddie Collins managed the White Sox in 1925 and 1926 and the club finished in fifth place both seasons. After dismissing Collins Schalk was made manager of the club but again the White Sox finished in fifth place in 1927.

Blackburn Given Chance

Schalk was not notified of his re-management as manager of the White Sox until shortly before he was sent south for spring training. The team without any hitting strength and a weak infield failed to get off well and soon descended to the cellar. Comiskey, manager at his summer camp in the North Woods, received word of the poor showing of the team and was advised it was Schalk's fault. He immediately commanded Schalk's resignation which was tendered July 4. Russell Leland Blackburn, White Sox manager since 1926, was appointed temporary manager to succeed Schalk.

KLAN WILL STAY AWAY FROM FALL POLITICAL TILT

CHICAGO, July 18.—The Ku-Klux Klan will not enter politics this year, Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard, here for the biennial klavocation which started yesterday, announced.

Because of the "hot issues" involved particularly that of religion the Klan will take no part in the political campaigns this year, Evans said. The secret klavocation at which it was reported senator Hiram, Alabama, would speak is for Klan business only, he said.

However, men who said they were leaders of the Klan from the national headquarters at Washington disagreed with Evans.

They said that the meeting was for the purpose of mapping the Klan's activities in the camps. The principal purpose of the Klan, they said, would be to solidify sentiment against Al Smith, Democratic nominee.

Evans, addressing Klansmen at a banquet, said "the issues in this campaign are such that I have determined the Klan shall stay out of it. The issues are too red hot. The politicians are not going to drag us into it."

Grand dragons from practically every state are here for the meeting.

Deposed as manager of the Chicago White Sox, Ray Schalk, perhaps the greatest catcher of all time, may be through with baseball.

Although it was made to appear that Schalk resigned his post, there is no doubt but that Charles A. Comiskey discharged Schalk as he did most of the other managers who failed to win pennants with poor material.

Schalk does not want to quit baseball, and in his letter to Comiskey said "my connection with baseball remains in the balance".

Schalk remains the property of the White Sox, and it is within Comiskey's power to do whatever he wishes with his disposed manager. If it is the "Old Roman's" whim he can keep Schalk from ever becoming affiliated with another club but surely Comiskey would not impose that penalty on the man who gave 16 years of his life to the Chicago American League ball club.

Comiskey has been the target of Chicago baseball fans all season, and his underhand methods in dismissing Schalk have not increased the attendance at Comiskey park.

Three Escaped Boats
Only three of the 11 managers of the White Sox have not been "fired" by Comiskey. Clark Griffith, the first manager of the White Sox, gave up the management of the Chicago club after winning the pennant in 1901 to assume the leadership of the New York Yankees. Fielder Jones managed the White Sox for a little over five years, retiring in 1905 to enter business. Frank Chance died in 1924, after signing to manage the White Sox.

KLAN WILL STAY AWAY FROM FALL POLITICAL TILT

CHICAGO, July 18.—The Ku Klux Klan will not enter politics this year, Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard, here for the biennial klanvocation which started yesterday, announced.

Because of the "hot issues" involved, particularly that of religion, the Klan will take no part in the political campaigns this year, Evans said. The secret klanvocation, at which it was reported senator Heflin, Alabama, would speak, is for Klan business only, he said.

However, men who said they were leaders of the Klan from the national headquarters at Washington, disagreed with Evans.

They said that the meeting was for the purpose of mapping the Klan's activities in the camps. The principal purpose of the Klan, they said, would be to solidify sentiment against Al Smith, Democratic nominee.

Evans, addressing Klansmen at a banquet, said "the issues in this campaign are such that I have determined the Klan shall stay out of it. The issues are too red hot. The politicians are not going to drag us into it."

Grand dragons from practically every state are here for the meeting.

GRAIN BRIEFS
CHICAGO, July 18 — South-western reports: According to T. B. Armstrong of the Kansas State Grain Inspection department the average protein contents of 5,000 cars of wheat was 11.86. Most of it came from Kansas although some was from Oklahoma, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico. Current arrivals show a slight deterioration in grade due to increased moisture content.

Russian conditions: Unofficial Russian reports continue unfavorable although officials are apparently optimistic. Arrivals of foreign wheat at Leningrad last week amounted to 144,000 bushels.
Canadian National report: Western Canada benefited by hot weather but hail caused some damage in Southern Saskatchewan late last week. Some rust was reported, but not serious. Indications point to western Canada's greatest harvest.

LILLIAN GISH HERE

Lillian Gish—priestess of modernism. The ethereal Lillian has never been associated with things modern; her haunting beauty and wistful charm have usually graced dramas laid in the days of long ago. But in "The Enemy," Channing Pollock's vivid drama of Austria, she bridges the ages, to show us a Lillian Gish of today—a Lillian Gish more charming and more intensely real, than in any of her roles of the past.

Many said that Lillian Gish could never play a modern role and be accepted in it.

But Lillian Gish as a girl of today, in modern clothes and modern settings, is infinitely more interesting than in an age we are not familiar with.

Ralph Forbes, the noted hero of "Beau Geste," plays Carl, the husband, in an artistic manner, and Randolph Emerson, late of the stage, is convincing as the English lover. George Fawcett and Frank Currier, as fathers of Paul and the death of one of its most noble representatives."

The strictest censorship prevails throughout the republic but thus far there have been no indications of violence even though Obregon's immediate friends in Mexico City had urged—within a few minutes after the execution—that "we get behind this."

Obregon died as had his predecessor in office, Venustiano Carranza, by an assassin's bullet. It was not until the assassination of Carranza, and the subsequent revolution, that the famous one-armed war hero became prominent in Mexico's internal affairs. From 1920 he rode on a crest of popularity that brought about his second election as president only a few weeks ago.

Obregon was unopposed for the presidency in the recent national election—his two opponents having been assassinated months before.

While the national congress had not officially announced Obregon as the new president—a move that would not have come until the September session—this had been expected and it was expected also that Calles, a friend, would refrain from seeking two more years at the helm of the nation.

The general had been in many recent conferences with leaders. He had been closely protected, particularly since an attempt was made to bomb his automobile last winter. For the past few days he had been conferring over policies of his administration—and he announced his stand, on many important questions, particularly the delegate church issue only two days ago.

It was during one of these conferences at which Obregon was killed.

He had called Col. Ricardo Topete, Senator Valdez Ramirez, Former Foreign Minister Aaron Saez and his campaign director Colonel Juan James to the restaurant for a luncheon discussion of national affairs.

There was a lively crowd in the little restaurant. An orchestra played sprightly airs. As the General conferred with his friends the assassin, Juan, approached with a caricature.

It was of Colonel Topete that the assassin requested permission to show to Obregon. The former president was agreeable and glanced at the caricature.

The assassin pushed a small revolver into Obregon's back and fired several times. A late report said five wounds were found in the General's back and one across his cheek. Topete rushed to the assassin, seized him and was aided by friends. They attempted to kill the man who had just shot the president-elect.

General Cruz, the chief of police, entered the restaurant and stopped the attempts to kill the assassin with this statement: "Wait until we can see who's back of this."

He led the assassin away. The orchestra served to prevent many in the restaurant from knowing that General Obregon, a national hero, had been shot. His friends had little difficulty in removing him to his car immediately and starting a furious drive into the capital to the Obregon town home.

Enroute to the Obregon home the car carrying the fallen leader was met by one driven by Obregon's son, Humberto. The younger man was attracted by the haste and peeped inside—not knowing that his father was the man being ministered to in the rear seat. When he saw his father he wheeled and hurried home.

Humberto Obregon and several of the former president's friends lifted the General from the car at the residence, and just as they entered the house Obregon died.

Later the body was removed to the national palace where it will lie in state until the funeral. A guard of honor, composed of members of the cabinet and high government officials, will stand by the body.

The assassin meanwhile was heavily guarded. He refused to give his name, other than Juan. At first it was believed his name was Juan Escapulario but later police said they believed his name might be Jose Juan Gonzales.

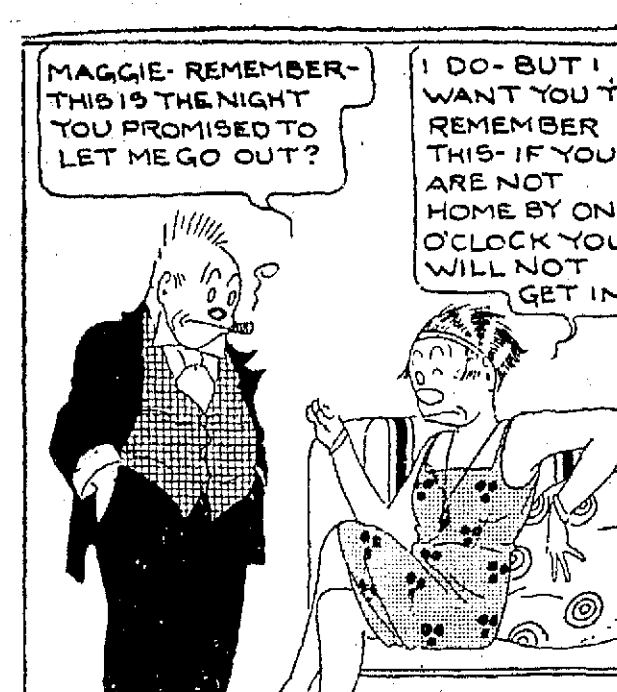

Carl have two great character roles, and Polly Moran adds comedy as the servant Petrouska. Fritz Ridgway, Karl Dane and John S. Peters extremely well cast, and little Billy Kent Schaeffer is interesting in the role of the child.

The picture is now playing at the Metropolitan theater.

NEW WAR OVER OIL?

The ostrich is, in many ways, an admirable bird. He has a fine physique is easily tamed, can run very fast and has beautiful tail feathers. Yet, on the whole, he is hardly so fine that we should adopt him as our national bird in place of the eagle.

In other words, it is not a good plan for us to copy his famous habit of seeking security by burying his head in the sand and shutting out all unpleasant sights. For when the ostrich's head is thus buried his posterior is elevated tempting the fates to apply a ringing swat with a barrel stave or boot.

Not long ago Rear Admiral Plunkett made a speech in which he said that this country and Great Britain were drifting toward war. Instantly a cry went up: "Unthinkable!" The admiral was called many names of which "jingo" was the mildest, and we all assured each other that since war with England would be unspeakably tragic it was, ipso facto impossible.

It would be a tragedy, surely. But is it really, "unthinkable?"

It is not. Ludwell Denny, a level-headed Washington correspondent who is no more a jingo than William Howard Taft, can think of it, for one. His recent book, "We Fight for Oil," ought to be read by all of us who have been putting our heads in the sand. For Mr. Denny thinks war highly probable.

The United States and Great Britain are engaged now in a great struggle for world oil reserves. Denny points out the spheres of conflict; Russia, the Near East, Mexico, Columbia, Venezuela. Standard Oil is doing the fighting for the United States while Royal Dutch Shell carries on for the Empire. The struggle is getting more complicated, more acute.

Neither nation could function without oil. The world's oil supply is limited. Each nation, from diplomats and financiers down to the perennial "man in the street" is determined to have an adequate unchecked supply. Floods of propaganda are pouring from each side.

Is war, in such circumstances, "unthinkable?" Obviously it is not. Obviously we are both drifting toward the brink. Obviously a minor squabble over some concession Columbia or Armenia could touch off a world conflagration.

Such a war would be a great catastrophe. It must be avoided, and it can be, if both sides make an intelligent effort to reach an amicable compromise. Some method surely can be found whereby the struggle can be abated.

But here is the point; if we bury our heads in the sand and keep crying "Unthinkable!" no such compromise will be reached. We will keep on drifting until we drift squarely into war. The only sensible course is to face the facts and see what can be done about it. Copying the ostrich can bring only disaster. We must get together now before it is too late.

CAUTION FOR SWIMMERS

The advent of extra hot weather has made the bathing beaches and swimming holes of the country popular places again. And, as the summer heat waxes, the papers give daily reports on deaths by drowning.

Oddly enough, most of those who drown at bathing beaches are people who can swim. The man who can't swim knows enough to take no chances. The swimmer is prone to run risks that he should not run. Sometimes they end disastrously.

Remember this, when you go swimming; cramps can strike anyone, even the most accomplished swimmer. A strong undertow man carry the best swimmer in the world out to his death. Treacherous eddies in unfamiliar streams can nullify all your aquatic ability.

Swimming is a great sport. But it is not a sport in which you can forget the simple rules of caution and common sense.

We suppose that if Gov. Smith should be elected president, Mayor Walker would be late at the inauguration.—New Bedford (Mass.)

HOW SWEET IS LIFE?

How Sweet 'is' Life?
Well, that is hard to say,
For each must live it in his own trite way.
Some see the sun by day, the moon and stars by night,
The living flowers that dot each
long highway,
While others only see the rain
And feel the hurts and sordid pain
And skies to them are always gray,
I've often wondered how they get that way
When life is so replete
With happy folks, if we'll but meet
And greet them just half-way—
In childhood, mud pie 's just as sweet
As any apple dumplings that we eat
When we grow old and tired, and say!
Remember, that it's up to you
To make the most of every day.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Koenigsfeld in the Black Forest!
Editor Herald:

While lately in Germany we spent ten delightful days in this lovely village. As we were the only Americans there, I suppose your readers will be glad to hear about it.

Some 125 years ago, the Moravians—Reformers before the Reformation—were asked to establish a religious center in South Germany. Near Villingen, a plateau was found, overlooking the picturesque country from the Luabrian to the Swiss Alps. After a church was built the village Koenigsfeld arose. It has now really become a model town with an amiable mayor and one policeman whose duty seemed to be to proclaim the arrival of a chimney sweep. I interviewed him also and asked him for his photograph which unfortunately he could not give me.

Excellent paths run out through the woods to very interesting castle ruins that reminded us of the days when knighthood was in flower. The Moravian Inn, Ghost of the Medergemeine, we found very comfortable with modern improvements and with excellent fare. From June to September it is crowded with guests from the large German cities. The pastor holds a short daily morning service for the guests who may wish to attend.

ASKS EXPLANATION

(Editor's Note: The following communication is addressed to the Board of Education of Washington-Twp. by J. L. Davis.)

July 16th, 1928.
Board of Education
Washington-Twp. Schools.

Gentlemen:—
In as much, as you are a public board elected by the people in the interests of Education, will you more clearly define your acts, through the columns of The Circleville Herald, with reference to awarding school routes.

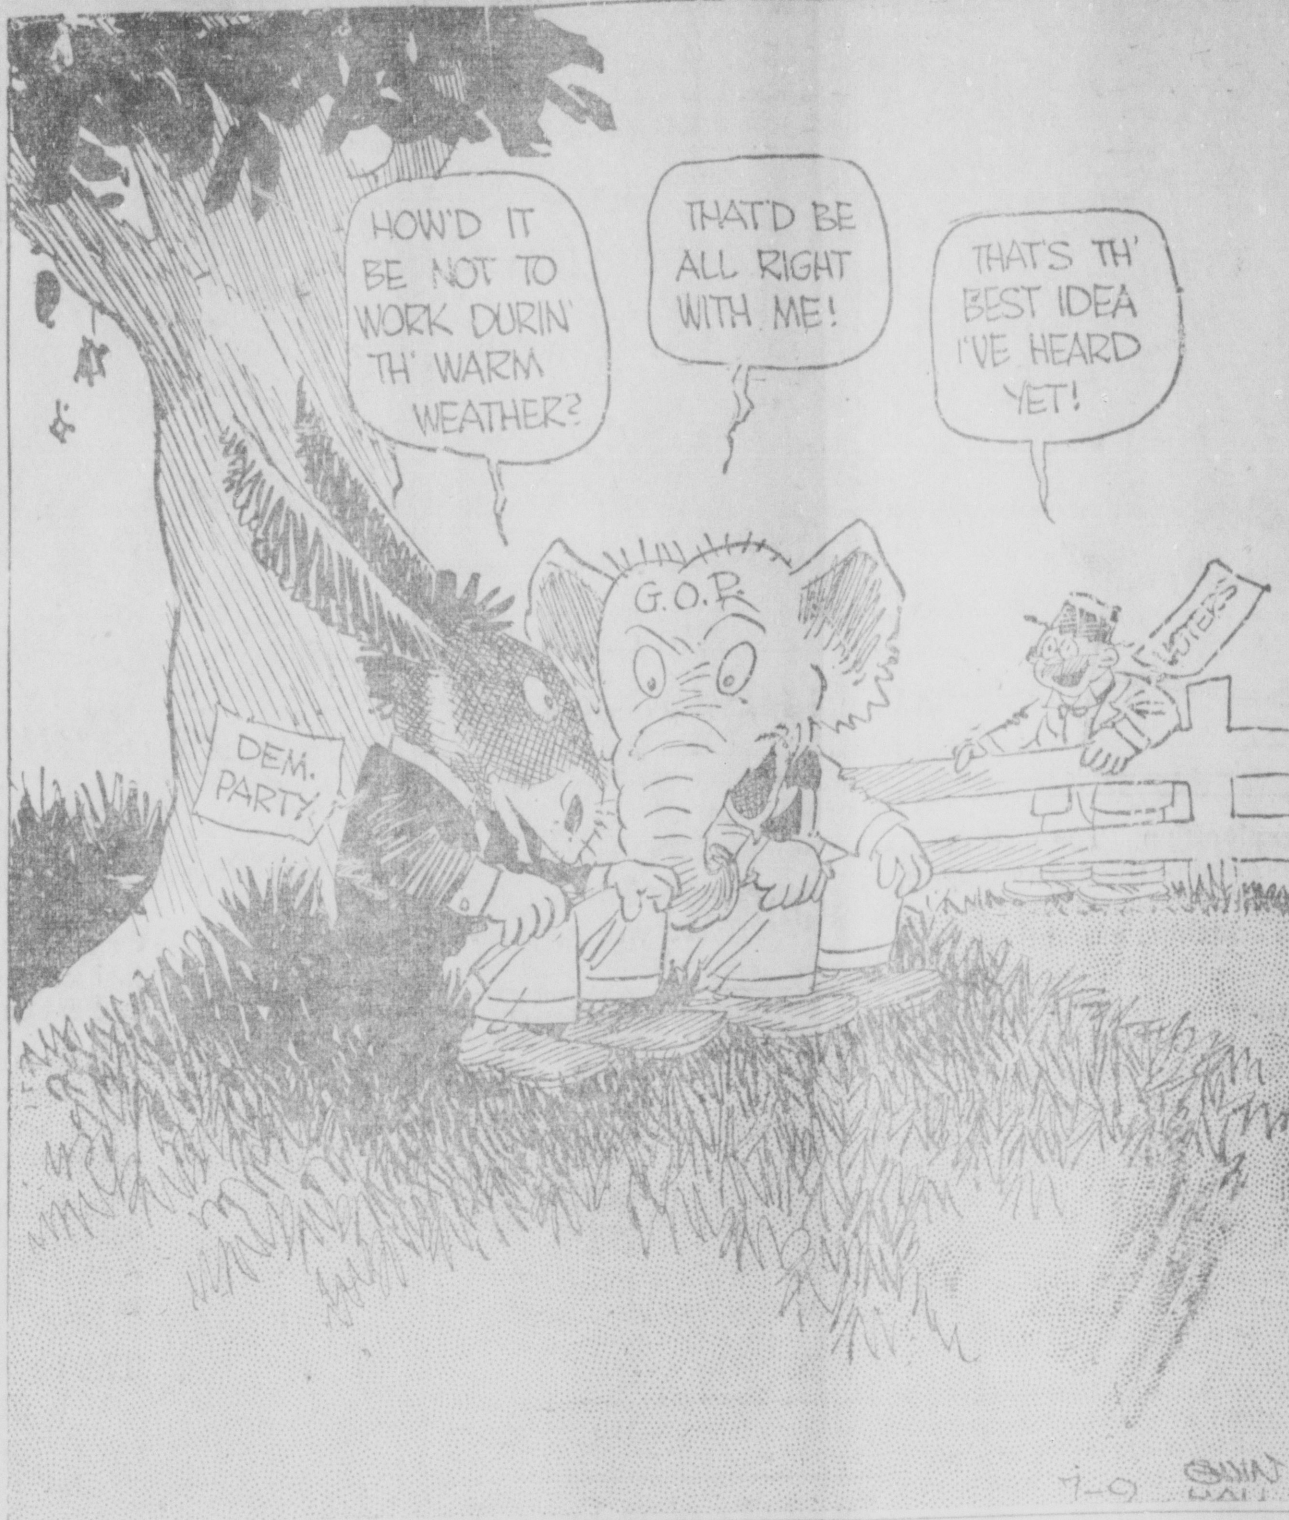

Recently you advertised for bids on the several routes, and the writer desirous of placing a bid on Route No. 5, inquired just where this route started and ended. I was sent word by the Clerk of this Board to bid on Route No. 4, a route I did not desire.

Was this not an indication that there was some one placing a bid on Route No. 5, who must not be disturbed. However the writer placed a bid on route No. 4, and also on route No. 5, explaining that route No. 5, was preferred.

On June 20th following the meeting of this Board on June 19, one member of this board was called on the 'phone to find out who were the successful bidders, and was informed that all routes was let except route No. 5, and when asked with reference to this route, one of the Board members replied that it was complicated and as there was not a full Board present, this route would be acted upon on the first Monday in July.

I was not informed as to the low bidder on route No. 4. It would appear that there was enough members present to take action on all other bids, why not route 5?
After the meeting first Monday in July, there was still no decision of the board, and a further meeting was called, and the following day I was informed that the route had been contracted. Between the last two meetings, I was called on the 'phone by the President of the board and asked I was not informed as to the low bid, and if so who was going to operate the car, and I explained that I was. He replied that they expected to get this route through the next meeting, and which was done.

Then asked if the party who got the route was low bidder, I was refused an answer. But my bid was rejected, because the Board did not think I could qualify on account of my age. This board did not know the age of the writer, and neither did they give me an opportunity to appear

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

BY parking her little car on a narrow mountain road, Alveda Ray, a pretty blue-eyed country girl, causes an accident in which two men are injured. One is apparently seriously hurt. Alveda, afraid he may die, works frantically to revive him. Meanwhile, a doctor arrives. He assures Alveda the young man will be all right within a day or so. Alveda learns that his name is Gary Chester and that he is an engineer. She sends him a luck token as she leaves town next day for the Big City. On the train she makes the acquaintance of Marie de Renze, a gaudily dressed blonde, who suggests that Alveda take up stage work in the city and stop at her home there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Chapter V.
The train gliding into New York City. Red-capped porters darting hither and yon. Marie de Renze for the tenth time dabbling a tuft of powder on her nose, adjusting her red hat in the strip of mirror, looking about anxiously for her "sort of a beau"—the Englishman!

Alveda thrilled—but at the same time shy and lonely! This great city, in which she was but a grain of desert sand... Marie rushed forward to a tall, good-looking, weak-chinned man. They kissed. Over Marie's shoulder his nearest eyes fastened—with appreciation on Alveda Ray. He said something—Marie turned—made the introduction: "This is my little friend—meet Mr. Clive Mortimer."

Then Marie bring a whole volley of questions. She'd had lots of luck in Montreal—she'd "got the goods," she said. At the Harvest Moon, how was business going? Goldie's new dance? Any new customers?

She had Clive by the arm—about to go—Alveda evidently forgotten. And then the Englishman made some suggestion—Marie frowned—shook her head. She gave a quick glance at Alveda, murmured: "May be later—today I'm too busy." Then, after a second's hesitation, gave the girl the number of her telephone.

"If you don't get suitably fixed up, give us a hinkle."

She nodded, pulled Clive towards the gates—and they were gone. A little dashed—and dazed—Alveda followed a porter through the vast precincts of the station—like the interior of some glorious cathedral, wasn't it? She felt immensely alone.

Her train on a hot, scorching, speedily driven through crowded streets. The clang of cars, the steam of sirens, and—what on earth was that extra ear? A trapdoor overhead?—the rattle of the "elevated." Rounding a corner on two wheels, the driver pulled up before this board and explain my qualifications in case I was the low bidder on this route. This reason is best known to the board.

It is amusing to hear such an excuse when men are permitted to remain in the service of great corporations until the age of 70 years. Many of them at the throttle of fast express trains and interested with the lives of thousands of people, yet a man 58 years of age was rejected on a school route whom boys from 14 years of age to men 75 years are operating motor vehicles over the public Highways of this country.

In rendering your decision, was it in the interest of good Government, Economy in the use of Tax money, or because the party is related to two members of the Board?

The cry of the Nation is for the lowering of taxes in all branches of our Government, but why award a school route, which is in excess of $75 for the full term above the bid submitted, with no services performed.

This is a question in which all tears onto her pillow. New York had diminished her small funds by $24.50. She was lonely, homesick, utterly cast down. She must leave this horrible hotel. But where to go? She cried herself to sleep.

"Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning," so the Scriptures say.

At exactly half-past eight Alveda's telephone awoke her—with an offer from an agency.

A firm of Wall Street bankers—William B. Lingard & Co.—required a "temporary stenographer" at once. The private secretary, quite a young woman, had been suddenly taken sick and was to be operated on. She had just rung up the agency—the woman in charge happened to be a friend of hers—William B. Lingard was "fussy"—her substitute must be a competent girl, quiet and well-bred.

The woman of the agency had liked Alveda's manner, had been sorry for her. So she got the chance.

Promptly at half-past nine, Alveda was at the Wall Street office, and before the desk. This time she wasn't nervous. So much was now at stake that she was icy-calm and cool.

She took William B. Lingard's dictation—which was much more lucid than the lawyer's—perfectly. Transcribed her notes on the type writer neatly, accurately, and with dispatch.

At twelve she was called again into the boss's office. He was satisfied with her, and gave her further letters. When, his desk-telephone rang, he said into the instrument: "Tell him to wait until I'm through—" went on dictating methodically.

And then, when he had finished, and Alveda—noted "2" in hand, was leaving the room—he said: "Ask Mr. Gary Chester to step in—"

Gary Chester? Impossible? It couldn't be... Her heart rose in her throat, as though to suffocate her... mechanically her feet crossed the floor, turned the door-handle, went into the outer room.

And there he stood, the handsome, grey-eyed man who since their fateful meeting in the mountains—had filled her heart and mind, oh, so disturbingly!

And in his buttonhole she saw there was a tiny, four-pronged clover leaf!

Hupmobile performance

THE widespread public belief that Hupmobile builds a stronger as well as a more finely balanced motor car, has never been more strikingly demonstrated than in the Hupmobile Century Sixes and Eights. Here are modern high compression engines whose power may be utilized to the full without wear or strain. At high speeds, for example, oil is forced at pressure to piston pins through drilled connecting rods. Lanchester dampers eliminate the last trace of engine vibration. Advanced oil, air and crankcase cleaners provide much longer life to the wearing parts of the motor. Throughout from chassis to the sturdy and beautiful coachwork, the Century models reveal the century's greatest advance in car design. You will own a Century Hupmobile as soon as you complete your first test of its remarkable riding and driving qualities.

24 body and equipment combinations, standard and custom on each line. Six of the Century, $1345 to $1625. Century Eight, $1825 to $2105. All prices f.o.b. Detroit. No war tax.

"PAID TO LOVE"

Virginia Valli and George O'Brien come to the Grand tonight in the picture by the above title. Queen of the Paris Apaches—she ruled supreme in the world of her own, but falls in with political schemers, and is paid to love a prince of the blood.

LILLIAN GISH HERE

Lillian Gish—priestess of modernism.

The ethereal Lillian has never been associated with things modern; her haunting beauty and wistful charm have usually graced dramas laid in the days of long ago. But in "The Enemy," Channing Pollock's vivid drama of Austria, she bridges the ages, to show us a Lillian Gish of today—a Lillian Gish more charming and more intensely real, than in any of her roles of the past.

Many said that Lillian Gish could never play a modern role and be accepted in it.

But Lillian Gish as a girl of today, in modern clothes and modern settings, is infinitely more interesting than in an age we are not familiar with.

Ralph Forbes, the noted hero of "Beau Geste," plays Carl, the husband, in an artistic manner, and Ralph Emerson, late of the stage, is convincing as the English lover. George Fawcett and Frank Currier, as fathers of Pauli and

The strictest censorship prevails throughout the republic but thus far there have been no indications of violence even though Obregon's immediate friends in Mexico City had urged—within a few minutes after the execution—that "we get behind this."

Obregon died as had his predecessor in office, Venustiano Carranza, by an assassin's bullet. It was not until the assassination of Carranza, and the subsequent revolution, that the famous one-armed war hero became prominent in Mexico's internal affairs. From 1920 he rode on a crest of popularity that brought about his second election as president only a few weeks ago.

Obregon was unopposed for the presidency in the recent national election—his two opponents having been assassinated months before.

While the national congress had not officially announced Obregon as the new president—a move that would not have come until the September session—this had been expected and it was expected also that Calles, a friend, would refrain from seeking two more years at the helm of the nation.

The general had been in many recent conferences with leaders. He had been closely protected, particularly since an attempt was made to bomb his automobile last winter. For the past few days he had been conferring over policies of his administration—and he announced his stand on many important questions, particularly the delegate church issue only two days ago.

It was during one of these conferences at which Obregon was killed.

He had called Col. Ricardo Topete, Senator Valdez Ramirez, Former Foreign Minister Aaron Saenz and his campaign director Colonel Juan James to the restaurant for a luncheon discussion of national affairs.

There was a lively crowd in the little restaurant. An orchestra played sprightly airs. As the General conferred with his friends the assassin, Juan, approached with a caricature.

It was of Colonel Topete that the assassin requested permission to show to Obregon. The former president was agreeable and glanced at the caricature.

The assassin pushed a small revolver into Obregon's back and fired several times. A late report said five wounds were found in the General's back and one across his cheek. Topete rushed to the assassin, seized him and was aided by friends. They attempted to kill the man who had just shot the president-elect.

General Cruz, the chief of police, entered the restaurant and stopped the attempts to kill the assassin with this statement:

"Wait until we can see who's back of this."

He led the assassin away. The orchestra served to prevent many in the restaurant from knowing that General Obregon, a national hero, had been shot. His friends had little difficulty in removing him to his car immediately and starting a furious drive into the capital to the Obregon town home.

Enroute to the Obregon home the car carrying the fallen leader was met by one driven by Obregon's son, Humberto. The younger man was attracted by the haste and peeped inside—not knowing that his father was the man being ministered to in the rear seat. When he saw his father he wheeled and hurried home.

Humberto Obregon and several of the former president's friends lifted the General from the car at the residence, and just as they entered the house Obregon died.

Later the body was removed to the national palace where it will lie in state until the funeral. A guard of honor, composed of members of the cabinet and high government officials, will stand by the body.

The assassin meanwhile was heavily guarded. He refused to give his name, other than Juan. At first it was believed his name was Juan Escapulario but later police said they believed his name might be Jose Juan Gonzales.

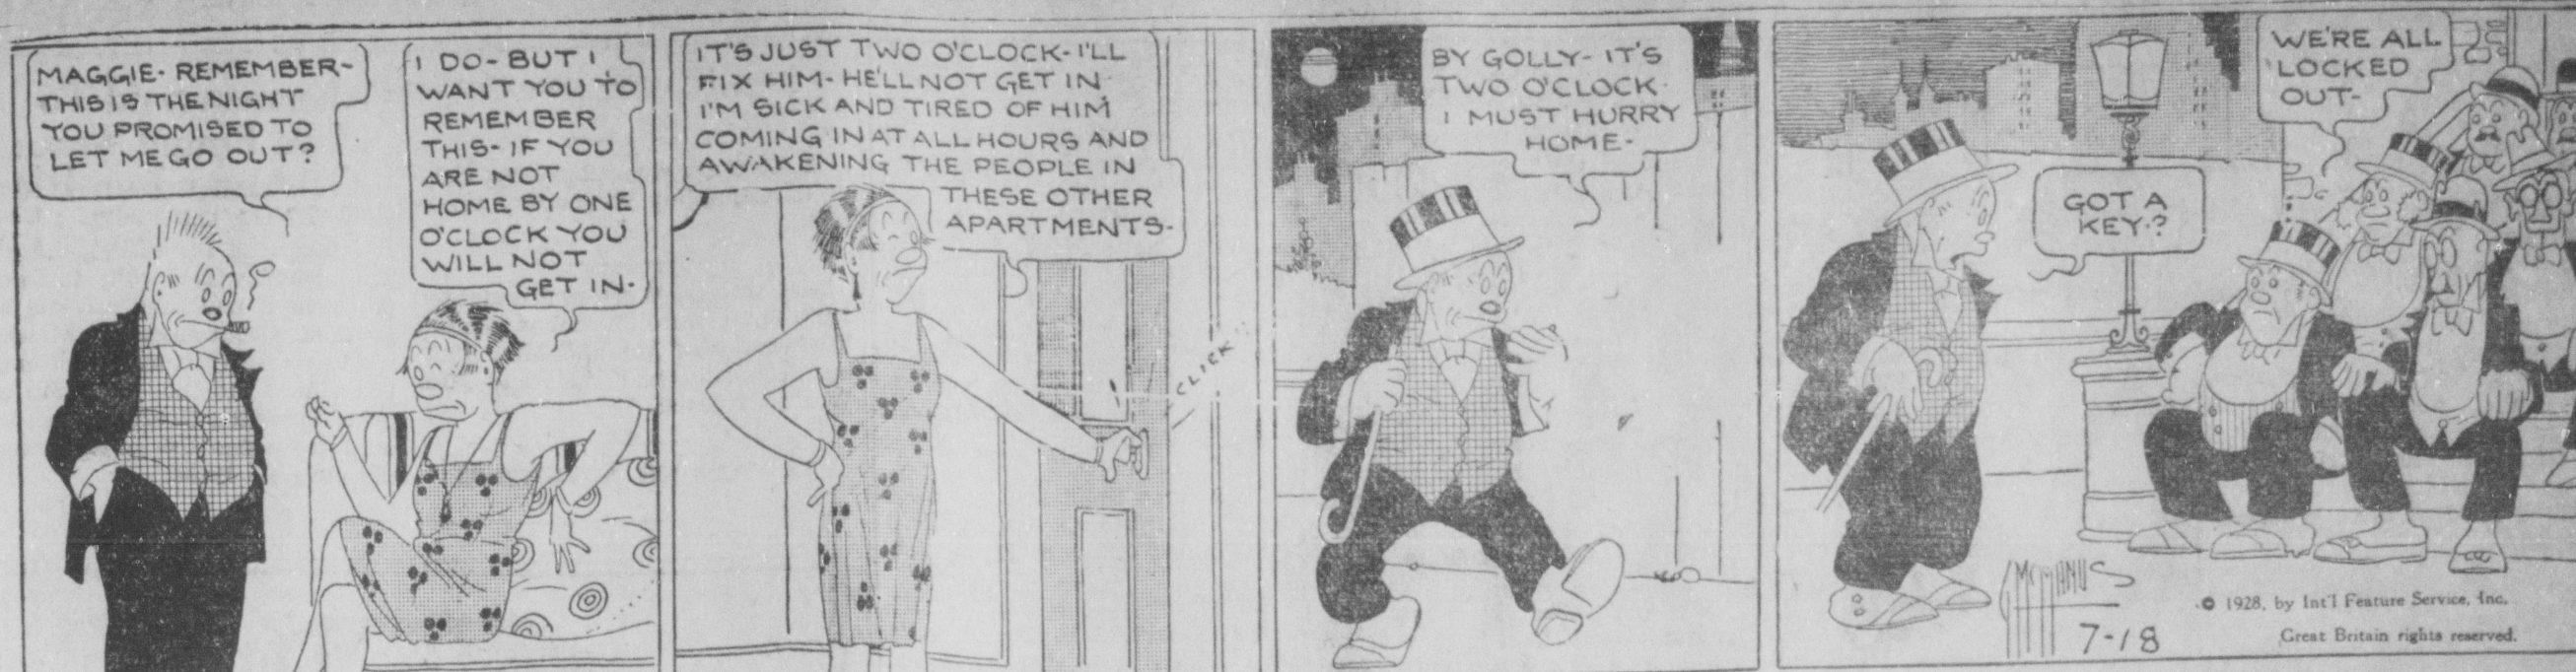

Carl, have two great character roles, and Polly Moran adds comedy as the servant Petrouska. Fritz Ridgway, Karl Dane and John S. Peters extremely well cast, and little Billy Kent Schaefer is interesting in the role of the child.

The picture is now playing at the Metropolitan theater.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

BY
EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma

J. LAWRENCE DEAN, EDITOR OF THE CLEBURNE (TEXAS) TIMES, SAYS:

THAT IF a dry goods merchant buys his hardware outside the home town then he must grant the hardware merchant the same right with regard to buying dry goods.

Merchants who trade away from home set a bad example for the people from whom they expect their trade.

If it is right to trade outside your home city, then it is right to patronize the mail-order houses; if it is right for one person to exercise this right then all must be accorded the same privilege.

The dollar spent away from home not only is gone, but it goes into the making of institutions in direct competition to those in your home town. The best way to remedy the evil of trading away from home is to practice the policy of buying everything from the home merchant.

One of the main reasons why so much business goes from the smaller to the larger cities is because the merchants in the smaller towns do not advertise as judiciously and as systematically as the big town merchants.

Advertising will stop the tendency of trade to flow from the smaller town to the larger cities.

Regardless of whether it is right or wrong, the big city dailies circulate in the smaller towns and parade pages of attractive advertising before the eyes of the citizens every day.

THIS IS THE PROBLEM OF THE SMALL TOWN MERCHANT AND HE MUST FIGHT FIRE WITH FIRE—ADVERTISE!
